To scale inhibit or not to scale inhibit?

Polyphosphates are scale inhibitors that prevent scale buildup before water reaches the ice maker — effective and safe at water-treatment levels, but no benefit to consuming them, so we leave them out where they aren't needed.

Our Cubers have a purge cycle that flushes the polyphosphates out - so they work great as a scale inhibitor.

Our chewable ice makers don't purge the water, so it's better to keep the polyphosphates out of the machine entirely.
